

Causal Inference in Health Research Workshop

May 9-13, 2011
Montreal, Canada

Causal inference attempts to uncover causal structures within data and eliminate all non-causative explanations for an observed association. This five-day workshop will review recent advances in causal inference and bring together interdisciplinary researchers for a vibrant exchange of knowledge so as to advance research in the health sciences.

For information and registration, see http://www.crm.umontreal.ca/Inference11/index_e.php or contact Erica Moodie (erica.moodie@mcgill.ca).

Student travel awards available.