

Random Matrices, Related Topics and Applications
August 25–30, 2008
Matrices aléatoires, sujets connexes et applications
25–30 août, 2008

A Random matrix model of black holes

Da Xu

Department of Mathematics
University of Iowa
MCL Hall
Iowa City, IA 52246
USA

`dxu@math.uiowa.edu`

Abstract

A random matrix model of black holes is given based on analysis of Gaussian complex ensembles, based on the generalization of chRMT of QCD. Spacetime freedoms are incorporated in terms of eigenvalues of the ensemble. Classical observables of black holes can be computed using this model and it satisfies asymptotic freedom and holographic principle.