

Combinatorial Problems Raised by Statistical Mechanics
February 19–23, 2007

Random tilings

Jan de Gier
jdgier@unimelb.edu.au
Department of Mathematics & Statistics
The University of Melbourne
VIC 3010
AUSTRALIA

Abstract

It is well known that random rhombus tilings can be mapped onto vicious walkers which can be enumerated by standard methods. I will discuss tilings of rectangles and triangles which can be enumerated using methods of statistical mechanics, but so far only non-rigorously and asymptotically.